

PennState
College of Communications

Information Communication Technology for Development (ICT4D) Consortium

ICT4D Consortium at Penn State presents

Why do we still have to talk about gender in ICTD?

10:30 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 12

Foster Auditorium

Paterno Library

Dr. S. Revi Sterling

Dr. S. Revi Sterling is the Deputy Chief of Party for the Global Broadband and Innovations Alliance, an agreement between NetHope and USAID. Her research focuses on ICTD in women's empowerment. Previously, she founded the ICTD graduate program at the University of Colorado Boulder.

The event is sponsored by the Don Davis Program in Ethical Leadership and University Libraries. For more information on the Information & Communication Technologies for Development Consortium (ICT4D), visit comm/psu.edu/research/centers/ict4d

The Don Davis Program in Ethical Leadership
COLLEGE OF COMMUNICATIONS

V I S I T   H T T P : / /   D A V I S E T H I C S . P S U . E D