

I have wanted to pursue a career in sports journalism since fifth grade! On campus, I belong to many organizations which have helped strengthen my interest and skills in this field. I am an active member of the Association for Women in Sports Media (AWSM). I have also worked on-air for Penn State Network News as a Sports Anchor, in which I was awarded “Most Promising Talent” by PSN-TV. I was selected to be an anchor and “Top 3 Plays” reporter for After the Whistle, and have served as both a host and an analyst for 360 Sports.

Additionally, I have participated in several sports-related internships, including Penn State Live Video Production, a Reading Fightin’ Phil’s Content Creation Intern this past summer, and am currently working as a Penn State Football Recruiting Intern.

Each of these experiences have provided me with invaluable skills and knowledge in preparation for my career as a broadcast journalist. I am absolutely ecstatic to see what the future holds!