

I would like to have an internship at Czech Television because I want hands-on experience in the field that I am interested in and have been studying in. I join the Penn State Network Television this semester due to my passion for television news production. It is pretty fun so far to try different roles on each show and be familiar with obligations and what's expected in real-life work. I personally have an international and multicultural background so I think interning abroad might be a good opportunity to not only learn different perspectives in journalism but also to work with a wide range of people. Applying what I have learned to actual practical work may give me a sense of achievement (bring my skills to somewhere needed) and know my deficiency that can be improved on.
