

As a senior planning to graduate in May, an internship can put my experience and skillset above and beyond when I look for jobs. An internship in hockey media relations can help me achieve my dream while adding a high-tier sports PR job to my resume. Working in an internship brings me a more extensive skill set than I have and expands my existing skills. Additionally, making connections in sports PR will be a big part of this internship. Connections and experience mean everything when it comes to finding your dream job.
