

I interned with WPSU last semester, and I found it to be an amazing experience. I learned a lot and got to work with experienced people, and I'd like to continue that experience into the spring semester. After graduation, I hope to cover politics through either radio broadcasting or print journalism. I actually hadn't considered radio until I started working with the staff at WPSU. I found I really enjoy making shorter stories that can air the very next day.