

I desire an internship so I can learn more about social media management and public relations in a more hands-on environment and get prepared for real-world work. I hope to get lots of experience in different areas of social media management and to become more versatile with what I know and can contribute in the future. I feel like the more experience the better especially in the public relations field as it is always evolving. My career aspirations would be to eventually become a social media manager at a well-established public relations agency. I would also like to work with influencers and do influencer relations.
